Silicone Raises Sumo Hopeful to New Heights

TOKYO—To gain the minimum height requirement to be a sumo wrestler, a Japanese teen-ager had 6 inches of silicone implanted under his scalp. Takeji Harada, 16, who failed six previous eligibility tests, finally made it to 5 feet 8 inches in June, thanks to the huge bulge on his head.

The Japan Sumo Assn. said Wednesday that, because of health fears, it will no longer accept aspiring wrestlers who artificially boost their height with silicone implants.

QUESTIONS

1. Who do I think I am?
2. What ^{and} what I do if I knew I couldn't fail?
3. What did I love when I was a child?
4. What's stopping me ^{thinking} ~~for~~ ^{from} realizing my dream?

The concept/world of "I" turns out
(upon much reflection) to be a swamp
(not a throne). It remains a swamp whether or not ^{or!} you conceive of it as such.
Realizing it can be quite a shock.

If you're in a swamp, it's much better to know it than not.

Being confused and knowing it may be uncomfortable... but better than being confused and not knowing it.

Oh! Is it really?

You're right.

I prefer knowing it.
It's not better.

Ego as Training Wheels

Ego — training wheels — a temporary ^{formulation} structure

When learning to ride a bike, training wheels ^(TWs) are useful for many people. After you get the feel of "biking", you may decide to leave the T.W.s on for a while ^{it's} (just for safety?).

But eventually you will want to remove the training wheels. Why? because they interfere with high performance maneuvers ^(HPM)

If you never attempt any HPMs, you could as well leave the TWs on. You won't notice 'em.

Self^(little) is like that. A simple way to get started... but we've elevated it to an end in itself. There is something beyond the little self. Religion has tried (not too successfully) to deal with it. Science is beginning to move in on it.

Paper: Carlos seized during liposuction

Reuters

LONDON — Carlos the Jackal was arrested while undergoing liposuction to remove fat from around his waist, the Observer reported.

The British Sunday newspaper quoted a Sudanese doctor in Cairo, Egypt, as saying Carlos had been admitted to a private hospital in Khartoum, Sudan, and that French agents seized him after he was rendered unconscious by an anesthetic.

Carlos was arrested last week in Sudan and extradited to France to stand trial for attacks authorities allege that he carried out during his left-wing guerrilla campaigns of the 1970s and 1980s.

The Observer said the dumpy Carlos had been admitted to a hospital run by Sudan's National Islamic Front for liposuction, a common cosmetic operation in which doctors vacuum fat out from under the skin.

But once he was anesthetized, French agents took him away.

Authorities have not said how Carlos was arrested, and there has been intense speculation about who told authorities where he was and how the French government persuaded the Sudanese to extradite him.

Lawyers for the Venezuelan-born Carlos say he was arrested illegally and that he was drugged.

Still, most people can barely encompass/conceptualize time as the history/future of their body.

Thousands/millions/billions of years has no emotional/conceptual impact on their understanding/self. it's irrelevant

Our sense of self is bound by the dimensions of time/space with which we can comfortably conceptualize

Learning English is more like learning to play the piano than like learning chemistry or history.

Ultimately English is a muscular activity.

Patterns of muscular movements/articulations.

These patterns can be acquired by the same methods of coaching applied in sports activities and music.

Teachers can't really "teach" these subjects.
Students must "learn" them.

What a good teacher can do is provide a space/opportunity/situation for student to quickly acquire these patterns.

Ad Gendo is now enrolling beginning

No matter what your experience has been in the past. The reason you didn't learn is because ↗ the teaching methods used didn't work.

It's not that you're too stupid — or English is too difficult. Until now few people really understood the process of learning language well enough to design effective teaching method. But now we know enough to realize that we learn what we do, ~~not~~ a better than what we're told.

The Gendo method is based on the latest research into learning/etc.

Your ability to improve in English is now limited only by your own desire to learn. If you do the exercises, you'll learn English. The more you practice — the faster you learn.

Just like piano.

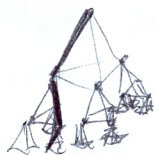

If you give your child piano lessons do you expect him/her to learn piano if they practice only once in a while — of course not. The parent insists on the child practicing — same with English teaching

After lesson Two / Class One, the student should be in a state of enlightened confusion - a sense that everything is known incorrectly - with a less than optimum relationship to knowledge. That is - their knowledge was held too tightly - their was was mistaken for the territory. The Universe is now seen as infinitely more mysterious, complex, potent, flexible, creative,

An intent of ~~Class~~ level one is to encourage a student to enrol in level 2 - the one year course in gendo. Some will want to become teachers.

At some point, in retrospect, you realize that you ~~aren't~~ the person who started the journey. Like the family heirloom axe... only 4 handles and 2 heads.

He can't leap tall buildings, but he might deter carjackers

He's powerful-looking, never gets hungry and deters bad guys. It's SafeTman, a 6-foot tall, square-jawed, unblinking bluff.

Dreamed up by Barbara LesStrang of Santa Barbara as a carjacking deterrent, SafeTman is made from a latex mold, polyfilled and available in a multitude of variations — blond hair, dark hair, salt-and-pepper hair; light or dark skin; brown or blue eyes.

Settled in the passenger seat of a car, SafeTman's 44-inch chest makes him look like a formidable foe to a potential carjacker or other potential evildoer.

LesStrang worked with a neighbor to design SafeTman, described in a company brochure as "the strong, silent type."

Selling for between $100 and $140, SafeTman weighs about 9 pounds and can be stuffed into an optional tote bag to take along on trips.

SafeTman is sold through Service Merchandise stores nationwide, including those in Fullerton and Garden Grove.

A question of conscious awareness.

How often do you check in?

If you're conscious (like most sapes) about 1% of your waking time, that amounts to about a little under 10 minutes/day.

One question to ask is which particular minutes were you conscious today, what kind of distribution? Do you save it all for one long burst... or do you take a few seconds many times per day. What kinds of activities are we engaged in when conscious?

Child raised by pet dogs, officials say

Reuters

BUDAPEST — A 4-year-old boy deprived of mother-love and reared by dogs has been taken into protective custody, Hungarian social welfare officials said Thursday.

The boy, identified only as Berci, sniffs and laps up his food, sleeps curled up in corners, growls, cannot talk and responds only to simple commands, they said.

Mihaly Szecsenyi, director of the Gyor-Sopron county Child Protection Agency, said the boy had been mistreated and often left alone by his single mother, who worked long hours away from their home in Szil, a village in western Hungary.

"He needed somewhere to belong to, to find some warmth, so he spent his time with the family's two dogs," he said.

Berci's mother told authorities she believed her son was retarded.

Police are investigating the mother and whether local officials in Szil were negligent for not helping Berci, who currently is in an orphanage.
